LET ME ENTERTAIN YOU!

The Key to Designing Effective Safety Presentations

Presenters can be disorganised because of lack of structure or lack of preparation.

Disorganised presenters do not allow enough time to prepare.

They throw material together at the last minute, without deciding what the main message is and without taking into account the needs of the audience.

The bottom line is that busy people have no time to waste. A disorganised and rambling presentation will make them feel cheated and angry.

If presenters are guilty of being a little disorganised – it is crucial they attend and follow this presentation – because they will discover the key elements they need to consider when developing and creating an effective safety presentation.

In this entertaining and educational presentation the audience will discover and learn:

- A range of preparation techniques and applications
- A new and different system of presentation design which has been refined over many years and which delivers the balance between method and content.
- Methods of evaluating your presentation design

The learning outcomes are simple, easy to follow and will give presenters a way of designing presentations that make them focus on how to present the content and to think about ways of entertaining their audiences as well as instructing them.
